

APOLLO BUILDING DECLARED UNSAFE

City Inspector George Wolfe Finds Structure Has Been Weakened by Removal of Partition.

REMODELING THEATER ROOM

Walls Can be Safely Supported by Erection of Cross Beam—Condemnation Notices.

The Umbright building on East Second Street occupied by the Apollo Electric Theater was today declared to be in an unsafe condition by city inspector, George Wolfe, who issued an order that it should not be entered until repaired except at the risk of the party violating the order. The room rented for the motion picture show is being remodeled and the building was weakened according to Inspector Wolfe by the removal of a brick partition. The wall was torn down so as to afford a larger seating capacity and to provide a place for the stage for the vaudeville acts. Inspector Wolfe said that his attention had been called to the condition of the building and after an examination found that it was not safe. He said that the part that was removed supported part of the floor of the second story and when the wall was taken away, the weight became too heavy upon the outside walls. It is said that the floor on the second story is falling away from the walls. The rooms on the second floor are occupied by Harvey Lucas and he was given instructions to remove from the building at once. Inspector Wolfe stated that he believed that the building could be safely repaired by placing a heavy cross beam between the walls where the partition had been removed so that there would be some support for the weight of the floor. Since the partition was torn out, only small timbers, it is said, were placed between the walls and these are not heavy enough to support the weight. The front of the building has been roped, so that no one could enter and several signs placed on the posts to inform all persons that the building has been condemned and was not to be used until the satisfactory repairs were made. G. L. Russell, manager of the Apollo, could not be located this afternoon and it is not known what arrangements were made towards repairing the structure. It is said that a heavy beam can be placed across the walls that would support the weight and there would be no further danger of the building collapsing or of any part of the wall of the building giving away.

FIELD EXAMINERS COMPLETE THEIR WORK AT CITY OFFICES

No Information is Given Out by Them and Official Report Will be Returned Later.

Robert James and James Smith, field examiners from the state board of accounts, who have been checking up the records in the offices of the Mayor, Clerk and Treasurer, have completed their work, and returned to Indianapolis this afternoon. They gave out no information regarding their report, but said that duplicates would be returned to each of the city officials in about three weeks after it had been entered upon the files of the state board. The examiners are very congenial and made many friends here. They made a thorough search into the records and files of the city and it is known that they went to the bottom of several transactions. They have nothing to do with the collecting of any money, which might be due, as this is taken up by the chief accountant. They have given their entire time since entering the service of the accounting board to city and town work and have had nothing to do with county affairs. The accountants work together and both sign the report filed with the state board. They have completed the examinations at Crothersville and Brownstown. Hereafter the examinations will be made each year, and their report will be the basis of the next examination.

Pipe Causes Fire.

A fire supposed to have originated from a pipe at the home of Albert Barriger on South Chestnut street about 4 o'clock this afternoon destroyed about $8 worth of furniture and bed clothing. The fire department made a quick run. The house was filled with a dense smoke.

Gypsies Chased Away.

The police chased a party of gypsies out of the city this afternoon. There were running about the streets endeavoring to tell fortunes.

Contractors to Give Figures on Improvement of N. Walnut and S. Chestnut Before May 15.

SPECIFICATIONS ARE READY

Work Must be Completed This Summer—Said That Petitions for Other Streets May be Filed.

Street improvement contracts amounting to several thousand dollars will be awarded by the city council Thursday night, May 15th. The resolutions to pave South Chestnut street from Laurel to Jackson and North Walnut street from the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad to Seventh street have been passed by the council and notice given that bids will be received until the above date. When the work is completed two main streets from north to south will be improved with the exception of a few blocks. It is understood that there is a movement on foot to pave the intervening blocks on South Chestnut. The total length of the improvement will be 3,210 feet. North Walnut street having 2,350 feet and Chestnut street 860 feet. The specifications show that there are 9,800 square yards of surface to be paved on Walnut street and 3,100 square yards on Chestnut. These include the street and alley intersections. The specifications require the building of curbing wherever necessary and it is estimated that about 570 lineal feet of marginal stone are needed on Walnut street and about 160 feet of curbing on Chestnut. Walnut street is shown to have an average width of 34 feet, while Chestnut street is but 30 feet wide. The resolution provides that the council shall designate at the time the bids are received what material shall be used, but this may be changed by the property owners by petition which must be filed ten days thereafter. The bids are based upon the same dimensions and specifications. The bidders may bid on either or all of the following materials: Trinidad asphalt, vitrified brick, Medina or equal, creosoted wood block, bituminous macadam, cement concrete with Dolarway top finish. The instructions to bidders which are printed elsewhere in this paper, provide that figures must be written in ink and stated in both words and figures. In case any alterations or erasures are made, they must be explained over the signature of the bidder. Each bid will be accompanied with the usual statutory affidavit of non-collusion and by a certified check for the sum of two and one-half per cent. of the city engineer's estimate of the cost of the proposed work. Such checks will be returned to unsuccessful bidders. The contractor's given the contracts will be required to furnish an approved bond within five days from the time of notice of acceptance of such bids in the sum of fifty per cent. of the estimated contract price. It is also provided that bidders must submit a proposal to make any repairs on said pavements at any time within five years, for all such repair work made necessary for any reason other than defective construction, and shall receive the price agreed upon. A bond must be given to keep the streets in good repair for a period of five years. The improvements must be completed on or before Oct. 15th. Considerable interest is shown in these improvements as it is part of the general plan to pave the principal streets of the city. Parts of three streets were improved last summer and it is believed that such work will continue until the main thoroughfares

A petition is now before the council for the improvement of Carter street from Tipton to Bruce and it is said that citizens in other parts of the city intend to file petitions for improvements either this summer or next.

533 PARCEL POST PACKAGES RECEIVED HERE LAST WEEK

Many Others Were Mailed at the Postoffice—Handled With Extra Cost of 75 Cents.

Postmaster Remy has filed a report with the department at Washington, showing that a total of 533 packages were received by parcel post on the incoming mail to the local office last week. This record was kept in compliance with the order of the department that the number of incoming parcel post packages be recorded for six days, beginning April 13th. This gives an idea of the volume of business in this department done in the local office, as Postmaster Remy says that it is about the usual number received.

In delivering this number of parcel post packages, the substitute carrier worked but two and one-half hours during the week, entailing an additional expense of seventy-five cents. With the exception of the packages delivered by the substitute carrier, all the parcel post business was handled by the regular carriers in addition to the regular mail. Besides the number reported, the local office handled quite a number of packages which were mailed at Seymour but which were not counted in the report.

REGULAR MOTION PICTURE SCENE ON PUBLIC CORNER

Wild and Woolly Westerner Fires Pistol When Crowd Refuses to Dance and Sing.

"Howdy, boys, I would like to see you sing and dance a bit, and now get busy," was the command given by an unknown stranger, supposed to have come direct from the wild and woolly west, to a group of men standing on a corner near the New Lynn Hotel about ten o'clock last night. To further carry out his western methods, the knight of the desert pulled a gun from his pocket when the crowd refused to jig and fired a shot towards their feet. He disappeared in the alley back of the hotel.

The shot was heard by a number of people who were in the vicinity at the time but no effort was made to locate the stranger as he was evidently feeling the effects of too much "fire water." The shot went wild and did no damage. Otto Stogdill clerk at the hotel, heard the shot and ran to the door, but when he was informed that no one had been hurt he did not call the police.

INTEREST SHOWN IN OPTION FIGHT

Elections will Be Held in Brownstown and Carr Townships Monday, April 28.

CLOSE RESULT IS EXPECTED

However, "Drys" are Encouraged by Progress Made and Expect to Win in Contest.

Local option elections will be held in Brownstown and Carr Townships Monday. Both sides are working hard to win the election and it is generally believed that the result will be close, although many persons who are interested in the fight feel that the dries will have the majority. Two years ago the majority in Brownstown township was twenty-two in favor of the dries.

Considerable interest is shown in the election in the two townships as those in favor of prohibition believe that if they carry this election the question will be settled for several years to come. There are many who favor the saloons who believe that it is their opportunity to win and if the results goes against them it would be useless to hold elections in the future. There has been several reports that there are a number of people in the two townships who voted dry last year, who will support the saloons in the next election, but from the best authority it appears that such rumors have been started for the purpose of influencing votes and are without foundation. Election workers, however, say that there are quite a number of voters who supported the saloons before who will vote dry this time and believe that if the dries lose any votes they will more than gain by new ones.

In both townships the old argument that the open saloon is better than the blind tiger is being used generally by the advocates of the saloon but there are any number of people who do not agree with this argument and will vote according to their convictions.

It is said that there has been less public intoxication at Brownstown since the town has been dry than when the open saloons were operated. It is probably true that liquor has been sold at Brownstown in the past two years, but the dries argue that this is simply a matter of law enforcement and when a township is voted dry, it is the duty of the officials to prevent such illegal sales. They do not agree with the argument that this cannot be done but contend that any official can prevent blind tigers if he will enforce the law.

It is believed that a good vote will be registered Monday in the two townships. The county commissioners have appointed the election boards and the two sides are equally represented.

WOMAN, CAUSE OF FIGHT BETWEEN TWO HUSBANDS

Wife Joins Present Husband in Attack Made by Former Spouse.

Carl G. Weddell of Indianapolis, who formerly lived in Seymour, married the divorced wife of James Jordan of Bedford several months ago. Tuesday he and his wife were in Bedford when Mr. Jordan attacked him at the Monon station. The woman joined with her present husband in meeting the attack by her former husband and Jordan showed signs of having been used pretty severely by the two. Mrs. Weddell took Jordan's constable's billy from his pocket and struck him over the head, breaking the stick with the first blow. Both men got in some fist work on each other until the police arrived when Jordan was arrested.

Of Interest to Women

What the Aeroplane Owes to Miss Catherine Wright-Brothers Experimented According to Their Sister's Calculations—Miss Wright Corresponded with Foreign Officials.

Miss Wright made the calculation and her brothers made the experiments. The three worked together. Before any demonstration was made, before her brothers had tested the machine they were building, Miss Wright knew that it was possible for man to fly. She was the first woman in the world to know it positively. She knew it because she herself had made the calculations. She was willing to stake what little money she had saved from her salary as a school teacher, along with the smaller amount her brothers had saved, upon the outcome of the device to be made according to her calculations. She staked it and she won.

When the machine was completed and was found to be a success, and it became desirable to get in touch with the nations of the world, it was Catherine Wright who brought the aeroplane to the attention of the men who would have to be dealt with. The letters which the representatives of foreign governments received were written by this woman in the name of her brothers.

All this time Miss Wright was going daily to the schoolroom. Even their neighbors did not know she took any interest in the flying machine. They knew that it was characteristic of the Wrights to be devoted to one another. But they did not know that this patient school teacher had mastered the intricacies of the air and that she had been in correspondence with governments, carrying on the promotion end of the flying machine.

Even after the Wright aeroplane had become famous and her brothers were demonstrating it to the world, Miss Wright continued her occupation of teaching. It was not until Orville Wright met with the accident at Fort Wright, which came near costing him his life, that she gave up her position and hastened to him. She remained until he was able to travel, took him home, nursed him to health and accompanied him on his trip to France.

Her Sad Mistake.

The clubwoman closed her book on "Domestic Responsibility," and, with a tinge of remorse, went out on the lawn, where her children were at play.

"Mary," she informed her children's nurse, "I've neglected my young ones for the clubs too much these last few years, and I'm going to try and make amends. Now, this afternoon I intend to dress one of them with my own hands and take it for an outing in the park."

It was quite late that afternoon when the reformed clubwoman, after pushing a go-cart containing the youngster she had selected and prepared for its outing about the spacious public park for several hours, started toward home. She had hardly come within sight of it when the nurse rushed up, palpably agitated.

"Oh, mum—" "The child's all right, Mary," the mother announced, by way of assurance. "I humored it all the afternoon with sweets and fruit."

"But, mum," cried the nurse, endeavoring to regain her breath, "Mrs. Smith next door's been scared into a fit, the police has been notified and—or, Lord, mum!"

"Don't act so, Mary! Why should you get so excited over that hysterical Mrs. Smith?" "You've gone and took her child, mum!"—Tit-Bits.

Dangerous to Suppress Feelings.

It is better, especially if you are a woman, not to suppress your emotions, advises Dr. Samuel McComb, of Emmanuel Church, Boston, writing on causes of nervousness in Harper's Bazar. These strangled emotions, these griefs and moral wounds and deep-rooted but frustrated desires of which you never speak even to your dearest, are the causes of your headache, your nervous dyspepsia, the irritation of your blood and flesh. Have a heart to heart talk with a dear friend or a trusted adviser, and watch them disappear. Women, especially, will carry moral wretchedness concealed in their hearts for years, says the writer, with the inevitable result of a nervous catastrophe. Mr. McComb thinks such as these will do well to relieve themselves by confiding their troubles "either to a wise minister of religion or to a psychologically trained physician."

Laughs at Superstitions.

Mrs. Peter Leys of Grand Rapids, Mich., believes it is lucky to walk under a ladder and to raise an umbrella in the house. She laughs at superstition, and never is happier than when she spills salt or breaks a mirror. Thirteen has been her lucky number. Many of her brightest experiences have fallen on the 13th of the month, and on August 13, which was a Friday, she gave birth to her thirteenth child.

An excellent way to brush down dusty walls is to take a roll of cotton batting and fasten a thick pad of it on the end of a stick. With this go over all the wall surface, burning the cotton as it becomes soiled and renewing the pad. This method is economical and efficient—more so than the ordinary cloth, which is too limp to do the work well.

Notice to Contractors.

Office of City Clerk, Seymour, Ind.

Sealed proposals for the improvement of South Chestnut Street in the City of Seymour, Indiana, from the north line of Laurel Street to the south line of Jackson Street, under Improvement Resolution No. 23, passed by the Common Council of the City of Seymour on the 15th day of March, 1913.

Also North Walnut Street in the City of Seymour, Indiana, from the north line of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern right of way to the south line of Seventh Street, under Improvement Resolution No. 27, passed by the Common Council of the City of Seymour on the 21st day of March, 1913, by grading, curbing and guttering (where necessary) and paving the roadway of said streets and placing marginal curbing at intersections of streets and alleys, as per plans, profile maps and specifications on file in the office of the City Engineer, will be received in the Council Chamber of the City of Seymour, Indiana, until the 15th day of May, 1913, at 8:00 o'clock, p. m., and not thereafter.

And at the meeting of the Council on the evening of the said date, such bids will be publicly opened by the Common Council, read and considered and the rate of bids noted; and, without necessary delay, the Council will designate by preliminary order the kind of pavement with which said street shall be improved.

Within ten days after the conclusion of a ten days' period for petitions, said preliminary order will be either confirmed or modified, in accordance with any majority petition which may have been filed within said 10 days' period; and thereupon a final order shall be made fixing the kind of pavement to be laid; and the Common Council may award the contract for said improvement to the best and lowest bidder—reserving the right to reject any or all bids.

The bids are to be based upon the following dimensions which are only close approximations, and may be increased or decreased as after measurements may determine:

For South Chestnut Street: Total length of said improvement about 860 feet.

Average width of roadway about 30 feet.

Square yards of surface including intersections of streets and alleys about 3,100.

There will be required about 160 lineal feet of marginal stone curbing; 600 feet of concrete curb and gutter and about 800 cubic yards of excavation.

For North Walnut Street: Total length of said improvement about 2,350 feet.

Average width of roadway about 34 feet.

Square yards of surface including intersections of streets and alleys about 9,800.

There will be required about 570 lineal feet of marginal stone curbing and about 5,000 cubic yards of excavation.

The bids are to be made at a stipulated price per square yard for pavement complete including excavation and a stipulated price per lineal foot for curb and gutter and a stipulated price per lineal foot for marginal stone curbing put down.

Bidders may bid on either or on all the following paving material:

Trinidad asphalt. Vitrified brick—Medora or equal. Creosoted wood block. Bituminous macadam. Cement concrete. Cement concrete with Dolarway top finish.

No two kinds of material shall be bid on the same blank forms.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS.

All bids must be made upon the printed forms to be obtained at the office of the City Clerk; the price written in ink, and stated in both words and figures. Alterations by erasures or interlineations must be explained or noted in the proposition over the signature of the bidder. If any discrepancy occur between the written and the figured prices, those most favorable to the city will be taken as the intention of the bidder.

Bidders must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Common Council that they are fully prepared with the necessary capital and proper facilities to begin, carry on and complete the work to be constructed. Each bid must be accompanied with the usual statutory affidavit of non-collusion, and by a certified check in the sum of 2½ per cent. of the engineer's estimate of the cost of the work bid upon, made payable to the Treasurer of the City of Seymour, Indiana, as a guarantee of good faith, which is hereby agreed as liquidated damages and forfeited to the City of Seymour, if such a proposal is accepted and the contract awarded, and the bidder fails to enter into a contract with an approved bond within five days from the time he shall have been notified of the acceptance of the same, then in case of such failure or neglect to do so, the bidder will be considered as having abandoned it, and in default to said city the amount of the certified check deposited and thereupon the Common Council may re-let the same to any other responsible bidder, or may re-advertise said work to be let as before and so on until the contract be accepted and agreement executed. All checks will be returned to the owners when the contract has been signed and the bond duly executed. Successful bidders will be required to furnish an approved bond within five days from the time they shall have been notified of the acceptance of their bid, in the sum of 50 per cent. of the estimate contract price of their work, conditioned to faithfully commence, carry on and complete the work in every respect according to the true spirit and intent of the plans and specifications.

Such bond shall be one upon which action can be had in the Jackson Circuit Court of Jackson County, Indiana. All bids must be made for materials in the different classes furnished in the work complete, and no estimate will be made for any part of the work not finished, nor materials except in completed work. Bidders shall set forth specifically the character of the materials bid upon together with the name and brand and the manufacturer or locality from which it is derived. All bidders upon asphalt bituminous, coal tar or petroleum product or cement shall file with their bid a chemical analysis of their material. Bidders for brick or for block pavement shall furnish with their bids six or more samples of the brick or block to be used to be deposited with the City Engineer, each brick or block to be labeled with the bidder's name and the address of the manufacturer.

All bricks or blocks, asphalt bitumen and cement used in the work must be equally as good as the samples furnished.

Bidders must also submit a proposal to make any repairs to said pavement rendered necessary at any time within five years by reason of the opening to relay or repair pipes when such openings are made with the consent or approval of the Common Council of the City of Seymour, for any other purposes or by reason of any cause other than that made necessary by defective work or material, by its proper use as a roadway, at a stipulated price per square yard for the foundation and surface so repaired and relaid. For such repairs the contractor shall receive pay at the price agreed upon, and he shall then become responsible for the maintenance of such repaired place during the life of the guaranty, the same as for any other portion of the pavement.

Bidders will examine for themselves the location of the proposed work, and all plans, profiles and specifications, so that no misunderstanding may exist in regard to the nature and character of the work to be done. In no case will the contractor be allowed to use materials other than that of the quality and dimensions prescribed by the plans and specifications.

The successful bidder before the work shall begin shall file a satisfactory bond in a sum equal to 30 per cent. of the contract price to guarantee the repair and maintenance of the work for a period of five years from the date of the acceptance of the said work by the Common Council. Said bond shall be one upon which action can be had in the Jackson Circuit Court of Jackson County, Indiana.

And as an additional security for the five year guarantee for repairs the city will retain in Cash or Improvement bonds an amount equal to five per cent. of the contract price.

All dirt, gravel, stone, cement or other material coming from the excavation of said street, and street and alley intersections, if not removed by the respective property owners in reasonable time shall be deemed the property of the city, and shall be removed at the expense of the contractor to any public place within three quarters of a mile of point of excavation designated by the City Council.

Said improvements to be completed on or before October 15, 1913.

Firms bidding must, in each instance give the individual names and addresses of each member of said firm. When the bid is made by a corporation, it must be signed by its proper officers; also the address of such corporation must be given.

A NEW RADIUM TREATMENT.

Announcement of Important Discovery Comes From Berlin.

From Berlin comes a report that a physician named Saubermann has discovered a way in which water can be treated with radium so that it has the greatest medicinal value.

He says that water thus artificially charged with radium emanation is of a much higher degree of activity than any water found in natural springs. Already hydroradium emanation therapy has met with remarkable results in the treatment of the whole range of diseases of metabolism, including gout, rheumatoid arthritis, nephritis and arteriosclerosis.

All over Europe claims are being put forward by various spas, but in the majority of cases the amount of radium emanation in the water or in the air is too small to have any physiological effect. Dr. Saubermann's discovery permits the water charged to reach any degree of radioactivity desired.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Nobody Can Tell If You Darken Grey, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Druggist Says When Mixed With Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's."

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, after another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur"; it surely helps folks appear years younger.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY

If you buy your land through my office in Benkelman, it means "INDEPENDENCE" to YOU in LIFE, and INDEPENDENCE to YOUR FAMILY at your death. I will enter into a contract and endorse right on your Mortgage that if you die before you get your land paid for, that all indebtedness is canceled and your family gets clear title to your land, thereby putting them in good circumstances. I know just how a man feels about going into debt and worrying about leaving his family in debt should anything happen to him.

These worries are things I am striving to alleviate for my patrons, and under my plan you have no such worries. Buy of me such a place as you want, pay what you can and make the balance up in yearly payments. If you live you know you can handle it, you know you can make your payments. Should you die, the Mortgage reads right on the face of it, that it is "PAID IN FULL" and your family starts off free from debt.

Moral: "Buy land of Matteson of Benkelman." He always stands by you. Come, look over my lands, pick on a place for yourself and become a booster for this great land of opportunity, where you are independent through life, and your family is independent after your death. My new list and map sent free upon request.

"Dame Fortune does not tease men to shake her jeweled hand, nor does opportunity entreat her acceptance."

WHERE ARE THE MOOSE?

The results of the first elections held since November have not been of material encouragement to christian soldiers of the bull moose variety. Indeed they have been such as to raise the question seriously as to whether that army has not shared a fate somewhat similar to that of the storied Assyrian host:

Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green

That host with their banners at sunset were seen;

Like the leaves of the forest when autumn hath blown,

That host on the morrow lay withered and strown.

Consider the evidence before us. Within the last few days there have been elections in Chicago, St. Louis, and the state of Michigan. In each of these unite last November the progressive ticket made a splendid showing, while the republicans were routed, horse, foot and dragoon. And not only were the republicans simply routed, but they were disgracefully routed. They were kicked and cuffed, slammed and banged, and roughly informed that the everlasting kibosh had been placed upon them. To add to their confusion and misery, the moosers made merry at dollar dinners, proclaiming their ability to fare forth and take the country. Yet now how all is changed. They have fared forth, but they haven't taken the country. They haven't even held their own strongholds, for be it known these early elections have all taken place in the very citadels of militant moosism. There's the case of Fort Chicago, the stronghold of the moose. It was there that the mighty Teddy held his convention and there his campaign headquarters were located. In the November election he carried the city with a whoop, the republicans finishing far back in the ruck behind the democrats. Yet last week the republican vote was vastly greater than the progressive vote and the progressives finished tailenders in a most sorry fashion.

In St. Louis the moosers made a magnificent showing in November and the republicans finished third, yet last week the republicans swept the city and there were hardly enough moose votes to count. And this, too, despite the fact that Teddy himself had issued personal proclamations calling for the support of the ticket. And last but not least comes Michigan—Michigan, which last fall gave her electoral vote to the colonel. Here, at least, great things were expected. Beveridge, Pinchot and other peerless leaders bounced about over the state exuding oratory and prophesy at every pore, while the colonel, by speeches in the state and by powerful appeals from the Olympian snows of the Outlook office, called upon the faithful to stand fast and swat the powers of darkness. These appeals of the patriots were earnest, frenzied and direct; but in reply the recalcitrant state of Michigan has rolled up an old time republican majority of 30,000 and the moose has come trailing in far behind the fleabitten donkey of democracy. It is certainly a dreary commentary on our appreciation of our national salvation and a dismal Jeremiad on the fatuity of human hopes and human ambitions. But yesterday and moosism might have stood against the world, and now none so poor to do it reverence.—Ft. Wayne News.

PARCEL POST HURTS EXPRESS

This is the Plea Made by Attorneys Before Tax Board.

Wails of financial agony, because of the encroachment of the parcel post on the business of the express companies of the United States were emitted before the state board of tax commissioners, yesterday afternoon, when a preliminary hearing was given representatives of several of the larger express companies doing business in Indiana on the condition of the property in Indiana that will be subject to valuation by the state board.

Attorneys for the Wells-Fargo company admitted that the parcel post had cut into the earnings of the company more than 25 per cent. All other express companies were in practically the same situation because of the inroads of the new system of federal package delivery, the attorneys said.

The attorneys for the various companies declared that, figured on the same basis as last year, with the same deductions from the taxables of the companies, each showed a negative amount of taxables in Indiana. Such a situation, they declared, was due to several agencies, perhaps the principal one being the parcel post.

The Wells-Fargo representative told the state board that March 1 this year—the date on which assessments are based—the value of the tangible property of the company in Indiana exceeded the value of the intangible property, which ordinarily is by far the higher of the two.

Representatives of the Wells-Fargo, American, National and United States companies argued that their valuations by the state board this year should be cut down to points ranging from $40 to $60 a mile. Last year the same companies were listed at from $125 a mile to $136 a mile and higher. The pleadings of the attorneys for the companies all were based on assertions that the value of the capital stock and other properties of the companies have rapidly decreased during the last year.

BRONCHITIS PREVALENT

Brooklyn, N. Y., Man Tells of Best Remedy.

At this season of year with such sudden changes, it is so easy to take cold, and almost before one is aware there is inflammation in the bronchial tubes—a hard cough and unless checked in time chronic pulmonary troubles may result.

Wilbur Adams of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "A severe bronchial trouble contracted in January caused me much difficulty about breathing. My chest felt clogged up and there was considerable soreness, all of which made me quite uneasy, besides being very painful."

I tried different remedies without help, but I am glad to say that Vinol cured my bronchial trouble which had lasted for three months. My breathing is all right now and the soreness entirely gone from my chest."

Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cod livers (without oil) and tonic iron. We guarantee it to be delicious in taste and to satisfy you with its medicinal effects. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour Ind.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Senator Cummins Says One Should Be Called At Once.

Washington, April 23.—Senator Cummins, of Iowa, is now confident that a national conference or convention of the Republican party will be held within the year to take up the question of reorganization. If the official committee fails to act, he said, yesterday, it would be called by others, and when it meets the voice of the future Republican party will be heard. "I can not understand why the members of the national committee do not bestir themselves," he said. "Their inertia is indefensible. They are either blind to the situation or they are indifferent to the welfare of the party."

"The Republicans who are progressive, who have a real desire for the restoration of the party to power, who believe that the vast majority of its membership understands the problems of this age and intend to meet them fairly, honestly and patriotically, want a national Republican conference or convention this year to remove immediately the just cause of complaint respecting the organization and purpose of the party."

"This conference or convention—and it may be given either name—will be held. It ought to be called by the official committee, but if the committee fails, it will be called by others."

Time expires May 1st, for mortgage exemptions. See H. A. Hodorp, a30d&w

BORDER SCALED BY AEROPLANES

Latest Cause of Franco-German Irritation.

TROUBLE MAY COME OUT OF IT

Another Involuntary Invasion of French Territory by German Aerial Craft Has Fanned the Embers of Bitterness, Resulting in an Official Interchange Having as Its Object the Creation of New Regulations.

Nancy, April 23.—Tension between France and Germany has been increased by another aviation incident on the frontier. Captain Von Davall, chief aviation inspector at Darmstadt, and Lieutenant Von Mirbach, in a military biplane, landed a little to the northward of Arracourt, which is hardly two miles from the frontier and twelve miles from Lunéville, where the German military dirigible Z4 landed only a few days ago and was held up for some time until proper explanations were made.

As this is the third incident of this kind within a short time, there is considerable excitement on both sides of the border. The first case was the landing of the Z4 at Lunéville. The next was the case of six German commercial travelers who attended a theatrical performance here, where there was a burlesque of the German army. The travelers hissed the performance and were promptly drummed out of town. The local officials at Nancy were suspended for their failure to take action in the matter, as the German government made an emphatic protest, but public sympathy is with them and they will probably be appointed to some other service.

France is now considering the question of three years' compulsory military service instead of two, and there is a bill before the German reichstag providing for an appropriation for the army of $260,000,000. The reichstag is also discussing the charges made by Dr. Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, to the effect that the Krupps of Essen have been trying to stir up trouble between Germany and France in order to make a market for their armor and armaments. It is charged that certain German officials are involved in this scandal.

The latest affair ended in an amicable manner. The two German officers landed near Arracourt, which became distinguished a few months ago when it gave cheerful obedience to a mobilization order issued by the postmaster, who had misinterpreted a cipher message.

The little daughter of the mayor of Arracourt was the first person to reach the spot where the air machine landed. The two German officers asked her in French "Where are we?" The little girl replied that they were on French territory. Whereupon one of the officers said in French in an emphatic manner, "Nom de Dieu."

There was great excitement at once. M. Raboul, the new police chief of Nancy, the military police and the French customs officers hastened to the spot. The German airmen declared that they were flying from Darmstadt to Metz and had been compelled to descend because they ran short of fuel. They believed that they were landing on German territory.

The sub-prefect of the town and other officials made an investigation and meanwhile the German machine was held pending an investigation. Notification of the landing was telegraphed to the French ministers of war and interior. After investigation the authorities issued an order that the German officers should be allowed to depart, as they were convinced that the latter had a correct statement as to the reasons for their descent on French territory. A semi-official communiqué was issued, in which it was stated that the authorities regarded the landing of the biplane as an unavoidable incident and that the biplane had gone some three miles in French territory without the knowledge of the aviators. The machine was released and the German aviators immediately started for home.

The foreign office, however, took cognizance of the incident, probably because of the fact of Germany's official protest against the treatment of the drummers at the Nancy theater. Instructions were sent to M. Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, to call the attention of the German government to the serious inconvenience of these repeated and regrettable incidents. M. Cambon was instructed to ask Germany to take measures to avoid the recurrence of such incidents and to appoint a commission to discuss with France the drafting of rules in regard to future affairs of this nature and to reach a decision in regard to what is called "aeronautical difficulties."

STUCK IN THE MUD ON HER TRIAL TRIP

World's Greatest Steamship Humbled at Outset.

Hamburg, April 23.—Being towed out for her trial trip, the Hamburg-American liner, Imperator, 900 feet long, became unmanageable, broke away from six tugs, swung around crosswise of the Elbe and brought up hard and fast in the mud. Her monster tonnage carried the liner far into the mud bank and all efforts to dislodge her proved unavailing. Six tugs, after working frantically for several hours, were reinforced with others, but their combined efforts were unsuccessful. Later the great vessel floated with the rising tide and proceeded out to sea. The Imperator, so far as superficial examination revealed, was not damaged.

The trial trip of the Imperator has been planned for the latter part of the month, and reports have been printed that Emperor William would be among a party of distinguished Germans who would accompany the trial board on the first trip.

The Imperator, when she goes into commission with the start of her maiden voyage to New York on May 28, will be the largest vessel sailing. Her keel was laid two years ago, 900 feet in length, or almost double that of Germany's largest warship. Her other dimensions are 36 feet beam and 62 feet depth.

HE HAS PLAYED HIS FINAL CARD

Wilson Appeals Direct to People of California.

THE COUNTRY'S GOOD FAITH

This, the President Points Out, Is Bound Up in Our Treaty Obligations Toward Japan Which Would Be Disregarded by the Action Proposed by California Legislators to Prohibit Japanese Land Holding.

Washington, April 23.—When received at the White House, Governor Johnson's reply to President Wilson's appeal to California in the matter of the anti-Japanese agitation, the president was pleased with the character of the assurances he received, but on one point the message from the governor seems to be unsatisfactory. President Wilson is very desirous that any legislation which the California legislature passes shall apply to all aliens and not alone to those who are ineligible to citizenship. Mr. Johnson's telegram makes it appear that the legislation to be enacted will relate to "those who are ineligible to citizenship." He adds, however, that the legislation will be general in character. Whether this means that the legislature will conform to the president's desire in having the law apply to all aliens or not is uncertain here.

President Wilson has played his final card in his effort to influence California against the enactment of legislation that will destroy the friendly relations between the United States and Japan. With a view to easing the pressure of public opinion now bearing on California's legislature in favor of passing stringent anti-Japanese land laws, the president issued a direct appeal to the people of that state respectfully protesting against any discrimination against the Japanese and urging Californians and their representatives at Sacramento to act in such a way that the country's good faith cannot be challenged in the light of its treaty obligations.

The president has been repeatedly informed by the California representatives and senators in congress that the people of the state were insisting upon the passage of the legislation which had aroused the protest of the Japanese government. He learned that public sentiment in favor of the legislation was so strong that if the legislature failed to pass a satisfactory law the people themselves through the initiative which they have adopted, might originate and pass a law which would prove much more embarrassing from an international standpoint than any of the bills now pending.

It was with a consideration for this information that the president determined to appeal over the heads of Governor Johnson and the legislature and deal with the people themselves.

PLAN DESIGNED TO CONCEAL THE FACTS

Charges Brought Against the New Haven By Brandeis.

Boston, April 23.—That John L. Billard of Meriden, Conn., made an alleged profit of $2,700,000 by the purchase from the New England Navigation company of its stock control of the Boston & Maine railroad and its transfer back to the navigation company and resale to the Boston railroad holding company, the bonds of which are guaranteed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was referred to in detail during the hearing which is being conducted by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty. David E. Brown, the commission's accountant, said that in the whole transaction he could find no record which seemed to show that Mr. Billard had paid much principal in money. It was shown in the testimony about steamship lines that some of the steamers were scrapped within three years after the New England Navigation company, one of the New Haven subsidiaries, had paid a large price for them.

In regard to the navigation company, Louis B. Brandeis said that it was not a navigation company at all, not even a holding company, but a medium which juggled accounts with the New Haven. The plan, Brandeis said, was intended to conceal the facts from the public by shifting accounts back and forth. He said that he wanted to bring out that dividends were paid out of capital and not actually earned, and that the actual capital had shrunk out of all proportion to the dividends paid. The plan, said Brandeis, was to pay from the New Haven to the navigation company, and then a few days later from the navigation company to the New Haven. President Mellen of the New Haven has issued a statement denying emphatically that he had profited by transactions in the stock of the New Haven or any of its subsidiary companies.

ACTION TO TEST RECIPROCAL TAX

Contention Between Insurance Companies and State.

SUIT WILL BE HARD FOUGHT

State's Right to Tax Foreign Insurance Concerns Under the Reciprocal Insurance Tax Laws Has Been Made the Subject of Formal Action in Superior Court at Indianapolis, and Final Decisions May Be Delayed.

Indianapolis, April 23.—Under the reciprocal insurance tax laws the right of the state of Indiana to tax foreign insurance companies, which has been in the county courts in one form or another for the last two years has entered the superior court here, where the state has sued the Continental Insurance company of New York for $51,364.20 alleged to be due because of the different systems of taxation in New York, the home state of the company, and Indiana.

The New York laws provide for a tax of 2 per cent on the gross receipts of an insurance company. The Indiana laws provide for a tax of 3 per cent on the net receipts in the state. The complaint alleges that the New York system, if applied to Indiana, would have made it necessary for the Continental to pay $51,364.20 more than it has since the laws became effective.

The reciprocal tax laws provide that the taxes collected in Indiana from foreign insurance companies shall be the same as those collected by the home state of the company from Indiana insurance companies. The suit against the Continental alleges that the company since 1876 should have paid to the state $180,480.04, instead of $128,783.78 it has paid as taxes. In another paragraph in addition to that based on the reciprocal laws, the company is alleged to have made returns to the auditor of state of less than the amounts on which it should have paid paid a tax of 3 per cent on the $100. The amount due because of the alleged unreported premiums is $16,118.42.

The controversy there is over whether the company should be taxed on bonuses, dividends and in some cases rebates to policy holders. The same questions were involved in a suit filed against the state June 6, 1912, by the Metropolitan Insurance company, demanding the return to it of money it paid to the auditor of state under protest when he threatened to revoke the company's license.

The litigation between insurance companies and state will be hard fought, as many companies will be affected by the rulings. Final decisions may not be obtained for a long time.

DISMISSED FROM MINISTRY

Case of the Rev. Helt Disposed of by Presbytery.

Evansville, Ind., April 23.—Complete dismissal from the ministry was voted by the presbytery of the Presbyterian church in session here in the case of Dr. Winfield O. Helt, formerly superintendent of the Evansville district of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League. Dr. Helt deserted the league three years ago, after several years of successful work, with the explanation that he believed the organization was defeating its purpose by a too radical program. Charges preferred against him at a meeting of the presbytery in Vincennes were canvassed and the committee recommended a year ago that on his failure to make a defense a suspension from the ministry be ordered. Opportunity for a defense and an exoneration was offered the former anti-saloon worker, but he failed to communicate with the church body at all and the step, removing him from the ministry permanently, was taken. Dr. Helt is reported to be in business in Fort Worth, Tex.

THE FIGHTING CONTINUES

Montenegrins Are Pressing the Turks Hard at Scutari.

Cettigne, April 23.—An official announcement says: "The Montenegrins attacked Scutari on the night of April 21, all along the line. There was fierce fighting throughout the night and sometimes there were bayonet charges. The Montenegrins captured the fortifications on two fronts of the town and still hold them. The Turks tried to recapture them at 7 o'clock this morning, but were repulsed with great loss of life after a bloody fight. The Montenegrins also suffered considerable losses. The fighting continues and the fall of the fortress is imminent."

DIPLOMATIC DINNERS DRY FOR FIRST TIME

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Set New Style in Washington.

Washington, April 23.—Diplomats are contemplating the unpleasant prospect of a drought for the coming four years at state affairs given by William Jennings Bryan. Most of the ambassadors were initiated into the aridity of the new diplomatic dinners when the secretary of state and Mrs. Bryan entertained at their hotel with a dinner in honor of the Rt. Hon. James Bryce, the retiring British ambassador, and Mrs. Bryce. Unfermented grape juice and bottled water, but no wines, were served.

The guests included all the most prominent members of the diplomatic corps and their ladies. Dinner was served in the cabinet suite of the hotel. In all eighteen persons sat down. The unfermented grape juice and table water were served as a punch.

This is the first time for many years that members of the diplomatic corps have been invited to a formal dinner in Washington where wines have not been served. In the last fifty years there have been secretaries who have not drunk wine, but so far as Washington can remember no secretary of state ever refused to defer to the customs of this and other capitals to the extent of serving temperance drinks at a state dinner.

They Turned Them Loose.

Denver, Col., April 23.—The Industrial Workers of the World, numbering 100, who were placed in jail as vagrants here last week, have been released. CHAPTER XII. The Payment.

D R. JAMIESON did not immediately return to his other duties. He knew that in this case care and skill would for a time continue in demand. Little sleep was accorded him during his first night. Ammonia—whisky—what he had, he used to keep his patient alive; but morning came, and Dunwoody still was living. Morphine now seemed proper to the backwoods physician. After this had done its work, so that his patient slept, he left the room and wandered discontentedly about in the great house, too tired to wake, too strained to sleep.

"Old—old—it's an old, tumble down ruin, that's what it is," he grumbled. "Everything in sixes and sevens—a man like that—and an ending like this to it all. What it needs here is a woman—all the time, for that matter. But this one's got to stay now—I don't care who she is. There must be some one here to run things for a month or two. Besides she's got his life in her two hands some way. If she left now might as well shoot him at once. Oh, when I die I want to go to a woman—less world—no, I don't either!"

His decision he at last announced to Josephine herself when finally the latter appeared to make inquiry regarding the sick master of Tallwoods.

"My dear girl," said he, "Mr. Dunwoody is going to be a very sick man. He hasn't got any sort of proper care here. There's no one to run this place, and I can't stay here all the time myself. Even if I did stay all I could do would be to give him a dose of quinine or calomel once in awhile, and that isn't what he needs. He needs some one to be around and watch after things. This whole place is sick, as much as the owner of it. I reckon you've got to help me, my dear."

She looked at him, her large, dark eyes slightly contracting, making neither protest nor assent. He drew a long breath of satisfaction.

"Of course you'll stay," he said. "It's the right thing to do, and we both know it. You don't want to kill a man, no matter how much he desires or deserves it. I ask you to remain at least for a few days—or maybe weeks."

Her eyes still were on his face. It was a face fit for trust. "Very well," said she at length quietly. "If you think it is necessary."

It was thus that Josephine St. Auban became the head of Tallwoods household. Not that week did she leave, nor the next, nor the one thereafter. The winter advanced, it was about to wane, and still she remained. Slowly the master advanced toward recovery. Meantime, under charge of the mistress, the household machine fell once more into proper ways. The servants learned obedience. The plans for the work of the spring somehow went on much as formerly. Everywhere there became manifest the presence of a quiet, strong, restraining and self-restrained influence.

In time the doctor became lighter in his speech, less frequent in his visits. "You're not going to lose that musical leg, Dunwoody," said he. "If you're careful you'll have two feet for quite awhile yet to come."

Dunwoody at last reached the point of his recovery where he could grin at these remarks, but if anything he had grown more grim and silent than before. Once in awhile his eyes would linger on the face of Josephine. Little speech of any kind passed between them. There were no callers at Tallwoods, no news came, and apparently none went out from that place. It might have been a fortress, an island, a hospital, a prison, all in one.

At length Dunwoody was able safely to leave his room and to take up a resting place occasionally in the large library across the hall. Here one day by accident she met him. It seemed to her that she saw the tinge of gray crawling a little higher on his temples. His face was not yet thin, yet in some way the lines of the mouth and jaw seemed stronger, more deeply cut. It was a face not sullen, yet absorbed and, above all, full, now, of a settled melancholy.

"Good morning," said he, smiling, as he saw her. "Come in. I want to talk to you. But please don't resume our old argument about the compromise and about slavery and the rights of man. You've been trying—all these weeks when I've been down and helpless and couldn't either fight or run away—to make me be a Bentinite or, worse, an abolitionist—trying, haven't you? Please don't this morning. I don't want subjective thought. I don't want algebra. I don't want history or law or medicine. I want—"

She stood near the window at some distance removed from him, even as she passed stopping to tidy up a disarranged article on the tables here or there. He smiled again at this. "Where is Sally?" he asked. "And how about your maid?"

"Some one must do these things," she answered. "Your servants need watching. Sally is never where I can find her. Jeanne I can always find—but it is with her young man, Hector!"

He shook his head impatiently. "It all comes on you—work like this. What could I have done without you? But yourself, now are you coming on? That arm of yours has pained me!"

"It ceased to trouble me some time since. The doctor says, too, that you'll be quite well soon. That's fine."

He nodded. "It's wonderful, isn't it?" said he. "You did it. Without you I'd be out there." He nodded toward the window, beyond which the grass grown stones of the little family graveyard might be seen. "You're wonderful. I've seen you for what you are—one woman out of hundreds, of thousands. There isn't going to be any woman in my life, after you. Would you mind handing me that paper, please?"

"Without you I'd be out there."

He passed the document to her, opened. "Here's what I meant to do if I did not come through. It wasn't much. But I am to pay; and if I had died that was all I could pay. That's my last will and testament, my dear girl. I have left you all I have. It is a legal will. There'll never be any codicil."

She looked at him straight. "It is not valid," she said. "Surely you are not of sound mind!"

He looked about him at the room, for the first time in his memory inaccurately neat. He sighed. "I never will be of sound mind again, I fear."

"Make this paper valid!" he suddenly demanded. "Give me my sound mind, too. You've given me back my body sound."

Her lips parted in a smile sufficient to show the row of her white and even teeth. "You are getting well. It is time for me to go. As to this"—She handed him back the paper folded.

"You think it is only an attempt to heal the soreness of my conscience, don't you?" he said after a time, shaking his head. "It was; but it was more. Well, you can't put your image out of my heart, anyhow. I've got that. So you're going to leave me now? Soon? Let it be soon. I suppose it has to come."

"My own affairs require me. There is no possible tenure on which I could stay here longer. Not even Jeanne!"

"No," said he at length, again in conviction, shaking his head. "There isn't any way."

"You make it so hard," said she. "Why are you so stubborn?"

"Listen!" He turned, and again there came back to his face the old fighting flush. "I faced the loss of a limb and said I couldn't stand that and live. Now you are going to cut the heart out of me. You ask me to live in spite of that. How can I? Were you ever married, madam?" This last suddenly.

"You may regard it as true," said she slowly, after long hesitation. "Were you?"

"You may regard that also as true!" He set his jaw and looked at her straight. Their eyes met steadily, seeking, searching. They now again, opposed, stood on the firing lines as he had said.

"But you told me"—she began. "I told you nothing, if you will remember. I only said that if you could feel as I did I'd let the heavens fold as a scroll before I'd ask a word about your past. I'd begin all the world all over again, right here. So far as I am concerned I wouldn't even care about the law. But you're not so lawless as I am. And somehow I've got to thinking—a little—of your side of things."

"The law does not prevent my doing as I like," she replied. It was agony that showed on his face at this.

"Suppose I should tell you that all the time I was talking to you about what I felt, there was a wall, a great wall, for ever between us?"

"In that case I should regret God had made a man so forgetful of honor. I should be glad heaven had left me untouched by anything such a man could say. Suppose that?—Why, suppose I had cared and that I had found after all there was no hope? There comes in conscience, sir, there comes in honor."

"Then in such a case?"

"In such a case any woman would hate a man! Stress may win some women, but deceit never did."

"I have not deceived you."

"Do you wish to do so now?"

"No. It's just the contrary. Haven't

I said you must go? But since you must pay, I'm willing, if you wish, to bare my life to the very bone, to the heart before you, now—right now."

She pondered for a moment. "Of course, I knew there was something. There, in that room—in that wardrobe—those were her garments—of another—another woman. Who?"

"Wait, now. Go slow, because I'm suffering. Listen. I'll not hear a word about your own life—I want no secret of you. I'm content. But I'm willing now, I say, to tell you all about that—about those things. I didn't do that at first, but how could I? There wasn't any chance. Besides, when I saw you, the rest of the world, the rest of my life, it was all, all wiped out of my mind, as though some drug had done it."

"Oh, I'm awake now! But I reckon maybe that doesn't mean that I'm getting out of my dream, but only into it deeper yet. I was mad for you then. I could feel the blood sting in my veins, for you. Life is life after all, and we're made as we are. But later, now, beside that, on top of that, something else—do you think it's—do you suppose I'm capable of it, selfish as I am? Do you reckon it's love, just big, worthy, decent love, better than anything in the world? Is that—do you reckon, dear girl, that that's why I'm able now to say goodbye? I loved you once so much I could not let you go. Now I love you so much I can not let you stay."

It was any sort of time, a moment, an hour, before there was spoken speech between them after that. At last they both heard her voice.

"Now, you begin to pay. I am glad I am glad."

"Then it is your revenge? Very well. You have it."

She went to him swiftly, put a hand on his arm. "No," said she. "What I want you to believe is that it's life that makes us pay, that it's God that makes us pay."

"Is my debt to you paid, then? His voice trembled."

"So far as it runs to me, it is paid."

"What remains?"

"Nothing but the debt of yourself to yourself. I'm going to look back to a strange chapter in my life—a life which has had some strange ones. I'm not going to be able to forget, of course, what you've said to me. A woman loves to be loved. When I go, I go; but I want to look back now and then and see you are still paying and getting richer with each act of courage, when you pay to yourself, not me."

"Ah, fantastic! Ah, visionary! Ah, dreamer, dreamer! And you!"

"That is the rest of the debt. Each of us has suffered. Mine own is for the faith, for the cause."

"For what cause? What cause do you mean?"

"The cause of the world," she answered vaguely. "The cause of humanity. Oh, the world's so big, and we're so very little. Life runs away so fast. So many suffer in the world, so many want! Is it right for us, more fortunate, to take all, to eat in greed, to sleep in sloth, to be free from care, when there are thousands all over the world needing food, aid, sympathy, opportunity, the chance to grow?"

"Oh"—she beat her hands together, as was sometimes her way—"America, this great west, this splendid country where the feet are hurrying on so fast, fast—and the steam now carries men faster, faster, so that it may be done—it may be done—without delay—why, all this America must one day give over war and selfishness, just as we two have tried to give over war and selfishness, right here, right now. Do you suppose this world was made just to hold selfishness and unhappiness? Do you think that's all there ever was to the plan of life? Ah, no! There's something in living beyond eating and drinking and sleeping and begetting. Faith—a great faith in something, some plan ahead, some purpose under you—ah, that's living!"

"But they banished you for that?"

"Yes, that's why they put me out of Washington, I suppose. I've been twice banished. That is why I came here to this country. Maybe, sir, that is why I came to you, here! Who shall say as to these things?"

His throat worked strongly. There was some struggle in the man. At last he spoke, and quietly. "I see what separates us now. It is the wall of our convictions. You are specifically an abolitionist, just as you are in general a revolutionist. I'm on the other side. That's between us, then? An abstraction?"

"I don't think so. There are three walls between us. The first you put up when you first met me. The second is what you call traditions, your belief in wasting human life. The third—it's this thing of which you must not speak. Take the case of the girl Lily. She was the actual cause of your getting hurt, of many men being killed. Why?"

"Because she was a runaway slave. The law has to be enforced, property must be protected, even if it costs life sometimes. There'd be no government otherwise. We men have to take our chances in a time like that. The duty is plain."

"How utterly you fail of the truth! That's not why there was blood spilled over her. Do you know who she is?"

"No," he said.

"She is the daughter of your friend, Judge Clayton of the bench of justice in your commonwealth. That is why she wants to run away! Her father does not know he is her father. God has his way of righting such things."

"There are things we must not talk about in this slavery question. Stop. I did not, of course, know this. And Clayton did not know! I have bought Lily from him. You are telling me much."

"I will tell you—that night, when Carlisle would have killed you in your room there, when I afterward put you all on parole!"

"Yes, yes."

"I saved you then and sent them away. Do you know why?"

"I suppose it was the horror of more blood."

"I don't think so. I believe it was just for this—for this very talk I'm having now with you. I saved you then so that some day I might demand you as hostage."

"I want you to vote with me," she continued, "for the 'higher law.' I want you to vote with God's poor people. If—"

"Why, sir, if I could only get you to think as Mr. Benton does—a man with your power and influence and faculty for leadership—I'd call this winter well spent—better spent than if I'd been left in Washington."

"Suppose I wanted to change my beliefs, how would I go about it? If a man hasn't got faith, how's he going to get it—by what process can he reach out into the dark and find it? What's the use of his saying he has found faith when he knows he hasn't?"

"I cannot give you any answer. For myself, I have found that faith."

"You would endure much for your convictions?" he demanded suddenly. "Would you suffer more? Undertake the conversion of a sinner like myself?"

The flame of his eye caught hers in spite of herself. A little flush came into her cheek.

"Tell me," he demanded imperiously, "on what terms?"

"You do not play the game. You would ask me to preach to you—but you would come to see the revival, not to listen to grace. It isn't playing the game."

"But you're seeking converts?"

"I would despise no man in the world so much as a hypocrite, a turncoat! You can't purchase faith in the market place, not any more than—"

"Any more than you can purchase love? But I've been wanting not the sermon, but the preacher. You! You! Yes, it is the truth. I want nothing else in the world so much as you."

"I'd never care for a man who would admit that."

"There never was a woman in the world loved a man who did not."

"Oh, always I try to analyze these things," she went on desperately, facing him, her eyes somber, her face aglow, her attitude tense. "I don't see how a woman could care for a man who only cared for her beauty."

"Any price, for just that?" he said grimly. "You would be cheap at any cost."

"But a man even like yourself, sir, would be very cheap if his price was as you say. No turncoat could win me—I'd love him more on his own side yonder threefold wall, with his convictions, than on my side without them. I couldn't be bought cheap as that, nor by a cheap man. I'd never love a man who held himself cheap."

"But then," she added, casting back at him one of his own earlier speeches, "if you only thought as I did, what could we not do together? Ah, life is so little, so short!"

"No, no! Stop!" he cried out. "I cannot recant! I cannot give up my convictions or my love, either one; and yet I'm not sure I'm going to have left either one. It's hell, that's what's left for me. But listen. Much as I love you, I'd rather see you marry some other man than think of you never married at all. God never meant a flower such as you to wither, to die, to be wasted. Why, look at you! Look at you! And you say you are to be wasted! God never meant it so, you beauty, you wonderful woman!"

Even as she was about to speak, drawn by the passion of him, the agony of his cry, there came to the ears of both an arresting sound—one which it seemed to Josephine was not wholly strange to her ears. It was like the cry of a babe, a child's wail, difficult to locate, indefinite in distance.

"What was it?" she whispered. "Did you hear?"

He took her by the arms, looking sadly, mournfully into her face, and said: "You must go. Once in awhile I forget. It's got to be goodbye between you and me. We'll set tomorrow morning as the time for you to go."

"As I have a witness," he said at last, "I've said. Goodbye."

He crushed her to him once, as though she were no more than a flower, as though he would take the heart of her fragrance. Then, even as she felt the heave of his great body, panting at the touch of her, mad at the scent of her hair, he put her back from him with a sob, a groan. He bent and kissed her hands, his lips hot on them, and so left her trembling.

Yell Defiance at Blood Disorders

A Remedy That Has Shown a Most Remarkable Purifying Effect.

At Last You Can Get Rid of Blood Troubles—S. S. S.

The world medicine is one of the most abused in our language. There are certain medicinal properties just as necessary to health as the food we eat. Take, for example, the well-known tonic medicine S. S. S. This famous blood purifier contains medicinal components just as vital and essential to healthy blood as the elements of wheat, roast beef, the fats and the sugars that make up our daily ration.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the acute purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming eczema, rash, pimples, and all skin afflictions.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S. has a rapid and positive anti-dotal effect upon all those irritating influences that cause rheumatism, sore throat, weak eyes, falling hair, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks, and that weariness of muscle and nerve that is generally experienced as spring fever. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright and energetic, but you will be the picture of new life. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient Medical Department, where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may write freely for advice and a special book of instruction. S. S. S. is sold everywhere by drug stores, department and general stores.

Plans have been announced for the ninth triennial convention of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union, which will be held in Brooklyn Oct. 23 to 28. More than 2,000 white ribbons will gather from all parts of the world. The convention will have 100 delegates, of whom about half will represent the United States, and the others will represent practically every other civilized country. England will send 150 women, led by Lady Aurea Howard, daughter of the Countess of Carlisle, the world's president of the organization.

The convention session and a great Sunday mass meeting will be held at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn. Historic Plymouth church and other meeting places will also be used. This will be the fourth world's convention of the W. C. T. U. in this country. The first was held in Boston in 1891 and the second in Chicago in 1893. London had it next in 1895, then Toronto in 1897, Edinburgh in 1900 and Geneva in 1903. It came back to Boston again in 1906, went to Glasgow in 1910, and Brooklyn was selected for 1913.

Crop Improvement

Dead seed will not grow—Test it before you plant it.

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL COMMERCIAL CLUBS

"County Adviser" Merely One of the Adjuncts to the Success of a Farm Bureau—The Business Side of Farming Is the Question at Issue.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Dr. Knapp used to say that farming was one-eighth science, three eighths farm practice and one-half business. Up to date most of the work has been along greater production, but farm management is the real solution. The government has been making what it calls surveys, which means that they are studying local conditions, and are formulating plans to put farming upon a business basis.

Business men are just beginning to realize that the responsibility of better farming is laid at their door. The first thing necessary to do in every community is to organize an Agricultural Commercial club, which shall study each county as a unit, finding out what is the matter with it, and applying the proper remedy. It has been proven beyond doubt that greater production is not the fundamental problem—it is the creation of a business plan to use all of the by-products, eliminating waste, insure proper packing, growing not only quality, but sufficient quantity to demand attention, and then make a set of rules for marketing, which will protect every man in the equation, producer, distributor and consumer alike.

COUNTY SEED CENTERS

Many States Following Example of Wisconsin in Growing Pure Bred Seeds.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The plan of the Wisconsin Experiment association has been adopted by Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and a number of other states are now laying the foundation in each county to create an interest in seed breeding.

This makes a permanent organization to look after the purity of un-mixed varieties best adapted to soil and climate so that eventually it will be possible to obtain seeds in car-loads of the uniform type bearing the guarantee of the county association. This County Seed Breeders' association will not interfere in any way in the formation of county farm bu-reaus, but will undertake the grain work of that organization when formed.

There has long been a need of county associations for grain breeding to look after the matter the year round, instead of neglecting it until a week or so of seeding time. In this way the crop improvement committee is putting the seed selection work upon a permanent basis.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CLEARING HOUSE

Correlation of Effort Necessary to At-tain Highest Measure of Success.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] It is high time that the different forces working on the better country life, crop improvement and kindred subjects, should have a more efficient clearing house of information. There are workers enough, and money enough, to put the whole plan upon a business basis, but it seems that too many of the propagandists will not "play in the band" unless they can have a solo. We lack team work. Every man wants to make a touchdown, and then kick the goal, instead of working for success, shoulder to shoulder with all of the others who are en-gaged in the work.

HOME SEED BEST.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] One of the most interesting and beneficial projects is for each of the members of a County Corn club to fur-nish a sample of his seed corn and to plant it all side by side under the same conditions, properly numbered. One such experiment showed that seed brought in from outside the county produced 12 bushels per acre less than some of the seed from good seed houses, showing 22 bushels per acre less than that produced by the local seed selected by the club at home. The crop from the home-grown seed got ripe, while that from seed shipped in contained a lot of soft corn.

SPRING PLOWING.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] We often abuse our spring plowing by turning it up to the sun and dry winds to bake and dry out, depending on a shower to mellow up the ground at planting time.

It is a good rule never to leave the field either at noon or at night with-out first harrowing the ground that has been plowed. In my estimation no ground can be properly prepared, giving a good seed bed for corn, with-out the use of the disc. A half pre-pared seed bed means a poor stand and an uneven growth and the corn will suffer more from drouth and from insects.

A SILO ON EVERY FARM

The Silo Committee in Every Farm Bureau Should Get Busy at Once—Farmers Should Build Silos Early—Bankers Ready to Finance a County-Wide Campaign.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The average farmer waits until his corn is almost in the milk before plan-ning his silo, when, as a matter of fact, he should be planning it the winter previous, said a noted agricultural expert recently. The farmer should plan his silo before he plants his crops, otherwise he cannot tell how much corn to plant for ensilage pur-poses.

As the winter is past, the next best thing the farmer can do is to figure out right now how big a silo he wants and plant his corn crop accordingly. If he has also read up some good lit-erature on silos, such as he can get free from Uncle Sam's agricultural de-partment at Washington, from the state agricultural schools, or the lead-ing cement companies, he probably knows how large a silo he wants. Ex-perts say that it is better to get the capacity by having a tall, narrow silo than a short, wide one, as at least two inches must be fed off every day after the silo is unsealed and feeding commenced.

If the farmer is far-seeing, he will put in the foundation for his silo im-mediately after the spring plowing and planting, and then, in the first days of late spring and early summer he can economically build his con-crete silo. Long before the corn has begun to ripen his silo will be fin-ished. As a silo should not be filled for at least three weeks after being erected, so that the concrete may properly harden, it can readily be seen that the early building is most advantageous to the farmer, not only on account of the labor, but also be-cause the silage will be 100 per cent. better if cut in a succulent state, just when the corn is in the milk.

Bankers' associations all over the country are discussing farm credits, and in many places the plans are be-ing laid to finance all permanent im-provements at a very reasonable rate, either on long time or short time.

HOW TO GROW OATS.

(By C. W. Warburton, United States Bureau of Plant Industry.)

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Oats grow best on soils with good water-holding capacity, as they re-quire a great deal of moisture. When grown for grain, phosphorus is usu-ally the most important fertilizing ele-ment which can be added. Very rich soils, especially if deficient in phos-phorus, cause rank growth, with lodging as a result. When grown for hay or forage nitrogenous fertilizers may be used.

Oats are usually grown in the rota-tion after a cultivated crop, and are used as a nurse crop for grasses or clover. They are sometimes grown in combination with other crops. When grown with barley large yields of grain for feeding can be obtained, while with Canada field peas or vetch excellent forage is produced.

Kind of Soil. Oats do best on a rather loose, well-prepared seed bed. The common method of sowing the grain broadcast on cornstalk land without preparation and covering it with the disk harrow is careless and uncertain. Thorough preparation of the seed bed is strong-ly advised.

CORN EXPERIMENTS.

Minnesota College Shows Corn Crop Can Be Doubled.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] An acre of corn planted in check rows, hills three feet and six inches apart, has 3,556 hills; and, with three stalks to the hill, contains 10,668 stalks. If one stalk in each hill pro-duce a ten-ounce ear, the yield per acre will be 31.7 bushels. The average yield for ten years in Minnesota has been but 29.4 bushels. The average yield of corn per acre in Minne-sota for 1909 was 34.8 bushels. From this it is easily seen that on the average two stalks out of each hill do not produce ears at all or are missing. What is immensely more important than large ears is a field of corn in which every stalk produces a good eight or ten-ounce ear. Three eight-ounce ears per hill will practically triple the present average yield. If care is used in selecting only choice seed ears, lost strides will be made in increasing corn yields.

RAZOR BACK SEED CORN.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] H. M. Cottrell of Rock Island says: "I recently saw a razor back pig four years old that had good feed for four years and weighed 85 pounds. In the same yard were eight-months-old pure bred pigs that averaged 300 pounds. "There is just as much difference between scrub and pure bred corn as there is between razor back and pure bred hogs. There is too great a pro-portion of razor back seed corn plant-ed."

SOIL ROBBING A CRIME.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The time will soon come when it will be a crime in law—as it is a crime in fact—to rob the soil, and each state will insist that every man shall restore whatever elements of fer-tility he removes from the soil and add a liberal percentage for posterity. There is no question but that a state has dominion over its acres, and con-servation of soil is the most important of all.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

REED-GARLOCH. Ford Reed and Miss Nova Garloch a popular young couple of Salt Creek township were married Tuesday af-ternoon in the clerk's office at Brownstown by Elder G. M. Shutt. They later drove to this city and were the guests of the bride's sister, Miss Ollie Garloch. They will reside in Freetown.

BI-WEEKLY CLUB. Mrs. L. A. Ebner was hostess to the members of the Bi-Weekly Club this afternoon at her home on North Walnut street. The ladies spent a delightful afternoon together.

LOOKS AFTER THE DETAILS

THEODORE E. MYERS.

Staging a 500-mile race is no easy task, but the man who does most to make it a financial success and, there-fore, an artistic success, is Theodore E. Myers, auditor of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. It is Myers' duty, among many others, to see that the visitors to the Speedway are properly cared for. Seeing that all those seats get to the people who buy them; see-ing that the purchasers are properly care for and entertained when they reach Indianapolis—that is part of the work of Mr. Myers. And there were 50,000 in attendance at the race last year. Myers is one of the most trust-ed employees of the Speedway corpora-tion and enjoys the greatest confi-dence of Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, who is really responsible for the staging of the race. Myers has handled the mass of details for both the former 500-mile races. The success of those events is a matter of automobile race record.

SECURES FOREIGN CARS

CHARLES W. SEDWICK.

Probably no man in this country has been more prominently associated with automobile racing than Charles W. Sedwick, who this year will be director of events for the third annual 500 mile International Sweepstakes race, which will be staged at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. Mr. Sedwick is a true sportsman who performs his arduous duties merely for the love of the game and not for any pecuniary returns. He is the head of a large business firm in Indianapolis, and is compelled to put in several hours a day looking after the details of his own business. His recreation time is spent in promoting the welfare of the big automobile race. Mr. Sedwick is the man who went to Europe last autumn to interest foreign manufacturers in the race and it is owing to this trip that an English Sunbeam car, two French Peugeot's and other foreign cars will partici-pate in the 500 mile race May 30. Mr. Sedwick is a typical American busi-ness man.
